Deliverables

Mood Boards
Distinct creative directions built from your brand foundation. Each combines design, imagery, and color to explore how your brand might look and feel.

Café Collateral
Design concepts will align with your current brand look and feel, carrying forward the existing logos, fonts, colors, and graphics.

Alpine Modern Coffee
Applying the brand identity and story into a packaged café product.

Café Menus
The design, layout, sizes, and production styles will match your current system, with small adjustments so it’s visually aligned with the rest of the café collateral.

Brand Survey

Brand Goals

These questions asked about the goals and deliverables associated with our branding project.

What are your top business goals for the next 6–12 months?

4 responses

- Would love to see the Café get more attention from the specialty coffee community
 - Get featured on Sprudge
 - Go to SCA and present our coffee
 - Have more involvement with our Social media
- To increase sales and visibility of the 29th street cafe and Alpine as a whole both in the cafe and on social media. I would also like to see us grow during what is now considered our "slow" seasons (summer and winter breaks)
- maximize store sales at our two existing locations, launch roasting, solidify operations systems across the company, refresh branding, expand marketing.
- Top business goals over the next 6-12 months include solidifying brand identity, expanding into coffee roasting, and strengthening on-boarding/training processes.

How will you know that this project was a success?

4 responses

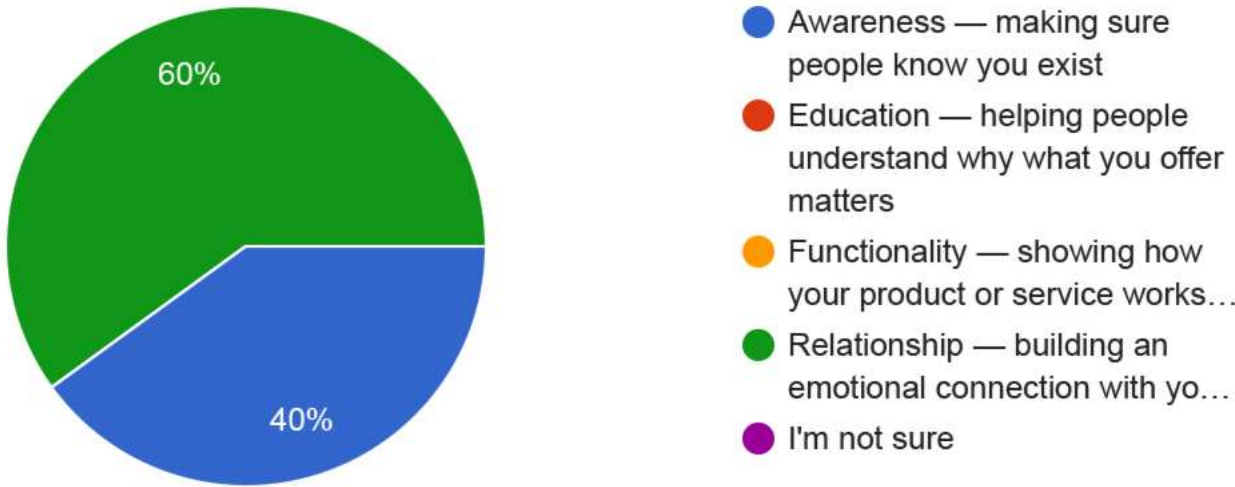

- We get nominated by sprudge for a certain category, recognition from SCA events/Expo, increased social media presence
- Seeing an uptick in overall sales, volume and our social media metrics
- 20%+ year over year increase in sales next year
- Project success looks different for each goal.
- Success in brand identity to me means that people see the Alpine Modern logo and are drawn in with the idea of an experience. Metrics might show in the form of increased merchandise sale, higher foot traffic in store, increased social media engagement from customers.
- As for expanding coffee roasting, my idea of success here is not in metrics but in a seamless transition to providing our own roasted coffee. Thinking forward, I'd like to encourage the association of our coffee with high quality whole bean sale to customers. I believe not only the taste of the cup of coffee - but coffee bean bag branding - has a lot to do with increased sales here.
